

Land-book

ID	IN-001
Type	Inspiration Gallery
Category	A. UI-UX Inspiration and References
Source	https://land-book.com/
Licence	Link-only. Site © Landbook Sp. z o.o.; featured sites © their creators; free browsing plus paid PRO plans. Terms forbid bots/scrapers, so no capture is stored
Platforms	Web
Themes	Mostly light UI around full-page screenshots
Commercial use	Browsing is free; PRO costs $9/month. The featured websites belong to their creators: never copy a design or its assets
Attribution	Credit the creator when you show or cite a featured site
Redistribution	No. Terms forbid bots, crawlers and scrapers collecting or copying content
Delivery	Website only; PRO adds screenshot download and Copy to Figma
Added / updated	2026-10-25

Notes

A hand-picked website design gallery “updated daily”: 20,000+ website examples and 200,000+ categorised sections (hero, pricing, footer...), filterable by industry, style, type, typography, colour and platform, with boards, motion and headline galleries, a template marketplace and a $9/month PRO plan. We link to it and describe it; its Terms of Service forbid bots and scrapers, so the library stores no capture, only our own wireframe of how it is laid out.

Our analysis OURS

Land-book is a classic inspiration gallery: a quiet light frame whose only colour comes from the full-page screenshots it shows. The interface stays out of the way, with page-type tabs and filters (industry, style, typography, colour, platform) above a uniform thumbnail grid, boards for saving and a detail page per site that, since a November 2025 redesign, puts screenshots, versions, sections, creators and colours up front. Use it for breadth (what do pricing pages, portfolio grids or SaaS heroes commonly look like this year?) rather than for award-level novelty. Lessons for your own galleries: keep thumbnails in one aspect ratio, let the content provide the colour, and put filters where people expect them. Because its terms forbid scraping, study it in your browser and keep only your own notes and sketches.

Components and states

- Websites gallery (thumbnail grid)
- Sections gallery (Hero, Features, Pricing, FAQ, Footer...)
- Filters: industry, style, type, typography, colour, platform
- Sort: most recent, recommended, most liked, most viewed
- Boards (save websites or sections)
- Website detail page (screenshots, versions, sections, creators, colours, tags)
- Motion, Headlines and OG Images galleries
- Template marketplace
- Copy to Figma and screenshot download (PRO only)

Best practices

- Browse by section type (Hero, Pricing, Footer) when you are solving one specific block, not whole pages.
- Filter by industry first: patterns that work in SaaS often fail for e-commerce or editorial.

- Save to boards with a note on why you saved each item; a board of 30 unexplained screenshots isn't useful later.
- Compare three or more examples of the same section before deciding, and look for what they have in common.
- Never copy a featured site's layout pixel-for-pixel or reuse its imagery; take structure and principles only.
- Remember the gallery shows desktop screenshots; check the live site on a phone before borrowing a pattern.

At a glance

What it is	Inspiration gallery
What you get	Landing pages, sections, motion and headline examples
Licence	Proprietary; link only
Attribution	Credit the site creator when you reference a design
Commercial	Browsing is free; PRO $9/month
How it ships	Browser only
Tip	Save to boards while browsing; keep notes and sketches, not copies, of the work you like.

How to use

Link-only entry: open the source site to browse. We store only our description, our own wireframe and the link, because the site's terms do not allow reproducing its content.

Figures and reference captures

Land-book: deep dive

Structured read of the official pages, terms and package files, checked 2026-10-25 (UTC+8), logged out. OFFICIAL = stated on the cited page or file; ESTIMATED = measured by Design Library (file sizes, class counts); OURS = our interpretation, not legal advice. Earlier pages hold our captioned figures and reference captures.

Our analysis

Land-book is a classic inspiration gallery: a quiet light frame whose only colour comes from the full-page screenshots it shows. The interface stays out of the way, with page-type tabs and filters (industry, style, typography, colour, platform) above a uniform thumbnail grid, boards for saving and a detail page per site that, since a November 2025 redesign, puts screenshots, versions, sections, creators and colours up front. Use it for breadth (what do pricing pages, portfolio grids or SaaS heroes commonly look like this year?) rather than for award-level novelty. Lessons for your own galleries: keep thumbnails in one aspect ratio, let the content provide the colour, and put filters where people expect them. Because its terms forbid scraping, study it in your browser and keep only your own notes and sketches.

Best practices

- Browse by section type (Hero, Pricing, Footer) when you are solving one specific block, not whole pages.
- Filter by industry first: patterns that work in SaaS often fail for e-commerce or editorial.
- Save to boards with a note on why you saved each item; a board of 30 unexplained screenshots isn't useful later.
- Compare three or more examples of the same section before deciding, and look for what they have in common.
- Never copy a featured site's layout pixel-for-pixel or reuse its imagery; take structure and principles only.
- Remember the gallery shows desktop screenshots; check the live site on a phone before borrowing a pattern.

What it is OFFICIAL

- “Find the best hand-picked website design inspiration. We're a curated website design gallery for Creatives, updated daily.” (land-book.com, via public search snippet, 2026-10-25).
- 20,000+ website examples and 200,000+ categorised sections “from Hero and Testimonials to Pricing and Footers” (land-book.com/pro).
- Pricing: “Use for free forever. $9 monthly for professionals.” Screenshot download and Copy to Figma are marked PRO only.

Source: <https://land-book.com/>

Layout and navigation OFFICIAL

- Main navigation (redesigned 19.04.2026): Websites, Sections, Mobile, New, Motion, OG Images, Headlines, plus Templates and Experts.
- Page-type tabs: Landing, Portfolio, Blog, Ecommerce, About Us, Career, Sign Up, Pricing, Case Study, Blog Post, Product listing, Product page.

- Filters: Industry (35+), Style (3D, Brutalism, Big Type, Pastel Colors...), Type (SaaS, Agency, Mobile App...), Typography (Display, Sans Serif, Serif), Color (seven hues) and Platform (Figma, Framer, Shopify, Webflow, WordPress); sort by recent, recommended, liked or viewed.
- Website detail pages (redesigned 10.11.2025) put screenshots, versions, sections, creators, colours and tags up front.

Source: <https://land-book.com/changelog/new-main-navigation>

Terms that shape this entry OFFICIAL

- Terms of Service (last updated January 2026; Landbook Sp. z o.o., Poland) prohibit using “bots, crawlers, or scrapers to collect or copy content”.
- Submitted sites are shared “for inspiration purposes only”; PRO is billed through Stripe.
- So this library stores no Land-book capture: only facts, links and our own wireframe.

Source: <https://land-book.com/terms-of-service>

UX analysis OURS

- Content-first chrome: the UI is mostly neutral so the screenshots carry all the colour, a good model for any gallery.
- Sections as a first-class object is the key decision: designers usually need ‘a pricing block’, not a whole site.
- The filter set mixes objective facets (platform, page type) with subjective ones (style), which is useful but inconsistent between curators.

Source: <https://land-book.com/>

How to use it well OURS

- Start from a section type, filter by industry, then save 5–10 candidates to a board with a note on each.
- Visit the live sites before deciding: screenshots hide motion, performance and mobile behaviour.

Source: <https://land-book.com/>